

Indy Dealer Expo

Every February, the newest and brightest in power sports gear, accessories, security devices and all things motorized meet in the convention centers of downtown Indianapolis. The Indy Dealer Expo is the first opportunity many dealers and shop owners have for seeing what products they can offer their customers. It is also our first opportunity to present to you the innovative products that will be available to you this year. The staff of the Owners News was quite impressed with the following companies.

By Ryan Manley #114317 and Mandy Langston #122921

Helmet House | www.helmethouse.com

After a lawsuit from Alpinestars last year, Italian boot manufacturers Oxtar changed their name to TCX. The new 2008 line includes updated versions of your favorites, as well as some flashier model boots from their additional designers. Also new from Helmet House are the color choices in the Tour Master Trinity Series 2 jacket (goodbye baby pink and blue, hello chocolate brown and tan). Also from Tour Master is the Transition Series 2 jacket, which retails for $169.99. The Transition features a removable waterproof liner, reflective sleeve piping and a series of chest, shoulder and exit vents. It includes a jacket/pant zipper attachment and adjustable waist belt.

» Media Editor Vince Winkel checks out the new line of TCX boots available from Helmet House.

« Richard Kimes of Helmet House explains the advanced technology that goes into every TCX boot.

CLOTHING