Cardo's helmet-mounted headsets are Bluetooth enabled and can be connected with GPS and mobile phones. In 2007, they were an option for solo riders and two-up riders. New for 2008 is the bike-to-bike model, capable of transmitting across up to 1,640 feet of space. The headset doesn't take long to install, and can be removed from a helmet without leaving a trace. The staff of the Owners News was impressed with this product last year, and looks forward to testing the range of the bike-to-bike model.

Are high-intensity headlights reflecting from your mirrors blinding you? Alpha Mirror's new auto-dimming mirrors adjust without lifting a finger to help alleviate the problem. The mirrors adjust the tinting to the current lighting conditions, and improve vision in all weather conditions. They are battery operated so there is no tricky wiring. Products are available from their Web site, and they offer free shipping worldwide. Each mirror costs about $249. They come in either black or chrome billet mirrors with a variety of different lens colors to choose from.

Jiano helmet by Vemar

Are you looking for a new helmet? Do you want something modular, with an internal sun visor perhaps? Take a look at the new Jiano by Vemar. Weighing in at 3.9 pounds, it comes not only with a clear shield, but also a dark smoke shield. Both use quick release systems and are fog and scratch resistant. Additionally, it features an internal flip down, jet pilot style shield. It's modular and the internal liner is removable. It features the exclusive "Vemar Klima" adjustable full ventilation system for superior control of airflow. What more could you ask for? How about a five-year (from the date of manufacture) warranty? The helmet ranges from $275 to $300, depending on the color. They are available online. Sizes range from XXS-XXL.
